The diagram illustrates the layout for an A1(594*841) panel. At the top, there is a section for a photo of the participating architect's work, with a height of 50mm. Below this, the panel is divided into two main columns. The left column contains a box for work details (title, architect name, completion year) and a larger box for a description of the submitted work (idea sketch, diagram, photo of model etc). The right column contains a box for a short description of 'What do you think of Korean Architecture' (around 100 words in English). Dimensions are specified: 20mm for the left margin, 48mm for the gap between the two columns, and 20mm for the right margin. A 20mm gap is also shown at the bottom of the main content area.
