

RIBA Chartered Practice membership

Application form for practices outside of the UK

Step one: Calculate your total number of employees

Chartered Practice fees are calculated according to how many total staff are employed in your practice. When calculating the number of employees you have, note that any member of staff working:

- Fewer than 5 hrs a week should not be counted.
- Between 5 and 25 hrs a week should be counted as 0.5.
- Working more than 25 hrs a week should be counted as 1.

When calculating your band add together all full-time and part-time staff. If necessary, totals should be rounded up; e.g. 5.5 staff should be rounded up to 6. So, a practice with ten full time staff members and five part time employees is counted as having 13 members of staff.

“Staff” total should be understood to be all those working directly for the practice. This will include Partners and Directors, but will not include any sub-contracted staff (such as consultants, temps, or maintenance).

Practices with multiple offices or studios in any one country should include all relevant staff across the whole business and detail each location on the following pages of this form.

A separate and definable “architectural business unit” within a multi-functional organisation may apply for RIBA Chartered Practice accreditation. Please contact RIBA Membership Development on +44 (0)207 307 3686 email: membership.development@riba.org to discuss business unit accreditation.

Step two: Work out your required number of architects and RIBA Chartered Members

Your eligibility is based on having a certain ratio of RIBA members employed at the practice being registered. For details of how many you need based on the size of your office or studio, please see the table on the right.

A Partner or Director is defined as any senior staff member with this job title (they do not have to be registered company director/ equity partner/etc).

How this works: a practice with 2 full-time partners and 14 full-time employees would be understood to have 16 “staff”. They would therefore need 2 people who are RIBA Chartered Members. 1 of those 2 people would have to have the job title of Partner or Director.

If the number of staff in your office is...	Then you need at least this many RIBA Chartered Members

Step three: Calculate your subscription fee

Please see the table to the right for the monthly cost of RIBA Chartered Practice membership adding any additional VAT to the total if applicable.

The subscription fees are based on a 12 month membership, which runs from the 1st January until 31st December. The fees are offered pro-rata from the month of joining.

So for example if you join in May and you're a sole practitioner, multiply the monthly fee (£3.08) by the number of months left in the year (8) to get your pro-rata fee = £24.64.

Bands	Monthly fee	Annual fee
Band 1 (sole practitioner)	£3.08	£37.00
Band 2 (2-5 staff)	£10.75	£129.00
Band 3 (6-10 staff)	£25.92	£311.00
Band 4 (11-25 staff)	£54.83	£658.00
Band 5 (26-50 staff)	£114.33	£1,372.00
Band 6 (50+ staff)	£228.58	£2,743.00

Step four: Fill in the form and sign the RIBA Chartered Practice Declaration

The practice name and contact details submitted below will appear in the online directory Find an Architect. After your practice is registered, you'll also need to create a detailed profile, showcasing the type of projects you do and sectors that you work in. Contact us if you need more information about creating your profile. If you have more than one office or studio, please provide details of your 'head office' or registered location first and other locations in the fields that follow.

FAQs

My practice doesn't currently meet all the criteria stated in the declaration under step 5. Can I still apply?

Support is available from the RIBA, including free knowledge resources, to help you meet the criteria in a way that's appropriate to the size of your practice. If you're interested in the possibility of becoming an accredited RIBA Chartered Practice, we encourage you to have a conversation with us so we can explore your options.

My company is a multidisciplinary organisation rather than an architects' office. Can we register?

Our criteria state that a definable architectural business unit within a multi-functional organisation (such as an architect's team within a multidisciplinary construction firm) can register as a RIBA Chartered Practice.

To find out more about this possibility, please get in touch and we would be happy to discuss.

Does the company have to accredit each individual office or studio location?

No – from October 2019 the RIBA Chartered Practice scheme covers the whole business or business unit in each country location. Staffing and Member figures should be added together for multi-location businesses to determine required Member numbers and annual fees. Only one set of signed declarations are required for the business as a whole.

What is a 'Registered Architect'?

A practicing architect that is a member of, or registered by, a professional or regulatory body for architects.

What is VAT?

The Value Added Tax, or VAT, in the European Union is a general, broadly based consumption tax assessed on the value added to goods and services. It applies more or less to all goods and services that are bought and sold for use or consumption in the European Union. Thus, goods which are sold for export or services which are sold to customers outside of the European Union are not normally subject to VAT.

Subscription fees for RIBA Chartered Practice published in this form, for practices based outside of the UK, do not therefore include VAT. The RIBA do require a VAT registration number for practices based within the European Union.

If you're unsure of the VAT status of your practice please contact us via the contact details at the bottom of this page.

What is the Code of Practice for Chartered Practices?

Introduced in 2017, the RIBA Code of Practice for Chartered Practices sets out and explains the standards of professional conduct and practice that the RIBA requires of RIBA Chartered Practices.

This Code comprises three principles of professional conduct and practice: Honesty/Integrity; Competence; and Relationships; and, a series of professional values that support those principles.

The full Code of Practice and supporting guidance notes can be found on www.architecture.com

Other National Codes

A member practising in a country outside the United Kingdom may be required to be a member of, or registered by, that country's professional or regulatory body for architects. If this is the case the Royal Institute recognises that a member's first obligation will be to comply with the rules of conduct published by the local professional or regulatory body.

How long does it take to become accredited?

We usually advise a turnaround of 7 working days after receiving your application. However, should you need this to be looked at urgently (for example for a bid or tender) then please contact us to let us know.
